LIVELY CONTEST PROMISED IN

FALL OVER LICENSE.

Special Cablegram to The Star.

SYDNEY, May 25.—A battle royal is rumored in Sydney in the latter months of the year, when the first local option vote will be taken concurrently with the polling in the state general election. Even now the campaign has begun, the two extreme parties—those who are bent on destroying the liquor trade and those who are equally determined to maintain it—being arrayed against each other. Both are trying to move the moderates, with whom no doubt the decision will really rest. The local option act of 1905 provides for a local option vote on (1) the continuance of the license; (2) reduction; (3) abolition. The anti-liquor party is strenuously working for the abolition of license, while the opponents are demanding the reopening of the public houses on Sunday during certain hours of the day. The latter party has already issued a manifesto and has circulated every license in the state.
It is to get the view of the Asiatic in Australia on the immigration laws that prevent the coming of his brethren. One of the main reasons to be seen in Melbourne was lately persuaded to talk on this subject, and it was found that he was delighted with the restrictions.
"Too many come from India," he said.
"Take away my money." He complained that before the commonwealth began to assist him and the liquor trade in their policy of the peddling trade it was hard to keep competitors from coming to Australian shores. "Selling," he said, "one write home to my cousin and say, 'This good country, make plenty money.' He say, 'My word, I go there too.' Selling I write,
'This country had no money here.' He say, 'My word, my cousin very much damnar. I come out that country quick.'"Compulsory Arbitration.Compulsory arbitration as a means of settling industrial disputes has received a severe blow from the strike of butchers at Wellington. For some years now differences between employers and employed in New Zealand have been settled by the state in the arbitration court, whose award is binding on the parties under penalties so long as the men are in combination as a trade union. As it happens, the cross has come without waiting for a turn in the tide of prosperity. The slaughtermen in the Wellington district stock yards have struck for more wages and got them; and with that full faith in state arbitration has in a moment become a thing of the past.The strike occurred among butchers employed by a couple of firms who export frozen mutton on a large scale, and the time was well chosen, for owing to a scarcity of grass, the farmers were pouring their sheep into the yards of the exporters and the position of the companies was hopeless in the event of a stoppage of work.Large flocks of sheep were confined in pad-ocks with little feed and every day's delay meant that the animals were going back, while there was even some danger in their actual starvation unless fodder was procured at a heavy cost.At this moment the men discovered that the wages they received under an award of the arbitration court were too small and demanded an immediate increase of 25 per cent, and left work when it was resolved that the men should open to the ties of $50 each by their actions, and officers were sent from the ministry of labor to remind them of the law. If they refused to pay they may be sent to prison, but whether it will be found expedient to send a couple of hundreds to jail for an offense of this nature remains to be seen. Still less does it seem feasible to deal with two or three thousands in this fashion if there were a strike of this kind on a larger scale.RELIEF FOR OXFORD.

Lord Curzon's Appeal for Funds

Created a Surprise.

Special Cablegram to The Star.

LONDON, May 25.—The appeal of Lord Curzon for funds for the relief of Oxford came with something of a surprise to those who had not thought deeply upon the subject, for it has been the common practice to suppose that Oxford and Cambridge universities are very rich.The reasons for Oxford's poverty, according to Lord Curzon, are really not difficult to seek. The necessities incident to procuring an education are increasing, while the purchasing power of money is decreasing every year. An income which in the old days might have been regarded as comfortable is now admitted on all sides to be miserably inadequate. For it should be remembered the salaries of the professors are fixed and do not rise and fall with the rise and fall of the necessities of life. Some of the professors' salaries are still extremely low, having been fixed at $500 per year when $500 per year meant wealth and comfort.It can readily be understood that a salary of $500 per year nowadays in a center like Oxford or Cambridge means the worst and the most tormenting kind of poverty.
But the salaries of the professors are seldom changed and some of the salaries at these universities—men who might be supposed to be getting thousands of pounds are struggling along on incomes less than those paid to good bookkeepers and bricklayers, trying to keep soul and body together on starvation wages.ODD QUESTIONS ANSWERED.

Many Replies From Both Sexes on Winking the Eyes.

Special Cablegram to The Star.

LONDON, May 25.—Sir James Crichton-Brown in the course of a lecture at the Royal Institution said that some time ago he issued a number of circulars, one of the questions asked in the circulars being whether the recipients were right-handed, left-handed or ambidextrous.Some thought it a practical joke, while others believed it to be only a subtle way of detecting insanity. But 957 replies were finally received. Of the number 24 per cent were left-handed.Another question in the circular was,
"Do you wink with your left eye or with the right?"The majority winked with the left eye and a number of ladies who responded to the appeal were equally divided as to the use of the right and the left eye.Rather more than 30 per cent claimed to be proficient in the use of both eyes and 9.3 per cent claimed that they could not wink at all.MANY SUICIDES IN VIENNA.

Startling Statistics Suggest a Salvation Army Bureau.

Special Cablegram to The Star.

VIENNA, May 25.—The great number of suicides which are taking place in Vienna has caused the Neue Freie Presse to suggest that Gen. Booth should establish in Vienna one of the Salvation Army anti-suicide bureaus. It is only a few days ago that a young shoemaker named Am-brochitsch and his sweetheart poisoned themselves because Ambroschitsch's relatives had forced him to betroth himself to another girl who had money.An art student named Gromer shot himself in the Vienna city park just about the same time. It was the day for his wedding and he killed himself because he saw no prospect of being able to support his wife.A jealous baker named Sollich of Trieste threw his sweetheart out of a high window and then jumped after her, both being killed, while an unfortunate passerby was as to urge the authorities to take up the matter after the manner of the plans reported concerning Mayor Johnson of Cleveland, Ohio.Authorities on
